

Fact Check: Jeanne Shaheen Never Profited From Public Service

Scott Brown's Wall Street Backers Are Falsely Attacking Senator Shaheen's Family And Independent Fact Checkers Have Already Discredited Their Attacks

- Factcheck.org: Ending Spending's Ad Made Scandalous Accusations Against Shaheen - "But The Scandal Is How The Group Distorts The Facts." Factcheck.org, [8/28/14]
- Politico Labeled Ending Spending's Attack On Shaheen As "Whopper Of The Week." Politico, Morning Score, [8/29/14]
- Concord Monitor Editorial: Ending Spending Ad's "Claims Just Don't Hold Up Under Scrutiny;" Attack Amounted To A False "Manipulation Of Statistics." Concord Monitor, Editorial, [9/5/14]

FALSE ATTACK: Ending Spending Falsely Claims Recovery Act Earmarked For Company

TRUTH: Recovery Act Did Not Even Mention The Company, The Industry Or The Grant The Company Would Apply For Months Later

- There Was No Mention Of The Company, The Industry Involved, Or The Grant The Company Would Apply For Months Later. Public Law 111-5, [2/17/09]
 - Ultrawave's $77,715 Grant Was "A Rounding Error In A Bill Worth $816 Billion," And Was Not Earmarked In The Stimulus Bill When Shaheen Voted For It. Factcheck.org, [8/28/14]
- Ultrawave Never Reached Out To Senator Shaheen, Her Husband, Or His Law Firm When Applying For Its Stimulus Grant. "The Shaheen campaign kept filling out the record noting Bill Shaheen not only did not get a dime from Ultrawave but the company failed to reach out to either the senator, Bill Shaheen or Shaheen's law firm for any help in getting the stimulus grant." Nashua Telegraph, [6/30/14]
- Ultrawave Labs Stated That Jeanne Shaheen Had No Role In The Company And Neither Shaheen Was Asked To Help Obtain Government Funding. Boston Globe, [6/24/14]

FALSE ATTACK: Ending Spending Falsely Claims That Shaheen Profited From Company

TRUTH: William Shaheen Did Not Profit From Stock Options With Company

- William Shaheen Did Not Profit From His Stock Options In Ultrawave Labs. "The Shaheen campaign kept filling out the record noting Bill Shaheen not only did not get a dime from Ultrawave but the company failed to reach out to either the senator, Bill Shaheen or Shaheen's law firm for any help in getting the stimulus grant." Nashua Telegraph, [6/30/14]

FALSE ATTACK: Ending Spending Falsely Claims That William Shaheen Profited From Company

TRUTH: Boston Globe Story Failed To Mention That Campaign Said It Would Be Filing Amended Disclosure

- Shaheen Campaign: Boston Globe Story On Shaheen's Finances Failed To Mention That Her Campaign Had Already Told The Globe She Was Going To File An Amended Disclosure. "According to Kirstein, The Globe did not report that Shaheen's campaign had already told the newspaper Shaheen was going to file an amended financial disclosure firm." Nashua Telegraph, [6/30/14]

- PolitiFact: Ending Spending’s Ad Claimed Shaheen “Failed To Properly Report” Her Husband’s Ultrawave Stock – But The Only Misreporting Was “Only Because Shaheen Failed To Show It Had Already Expired” And Was Worthless. PolitiFact, [9/2/14]

FALSE ATTACK: Ending Spending Falsely Claims William Shaheen Profited From Stimulus Team

TRUTH: Bill Shaheen Was Not A Member Of The Firm’s Economic Stimulus Team, Which Represented No Clients

- Bill Shaheen Was Not A Member Of The Firm’s Economic Stimulus Opportunities Team. According to Shaheen & Gordon’s website, the firm’s Economic Stimulus Opportunities Team did not include Bill Shaheen. The team consisted of Sean O’Connell, Arpiar Saunders, Karyn Forbes, Lucy Karl, Steven Gordon, Steve Duggan, Michael McMcLaughlin. Shaheen & Gordon, Archived [6/11/09]
- Stimulus Opportunities Team Was Short-Lived And Represented No Clients. “Meanwhile, Bill Shaheen’s law firm, Shaheen and Gordon issued its own statement. ‘The firm’s Stimulus Opportunities Team was operational for a very brief time. We represented no clients in this area. Mr. Shaheen was not the firm’s managing partner at this time and was not a member of the team,’ said Mike Noonan, the firm’s president and managing director since January 2007.” Nashua Telegraph, [6/30/14]